The Approaching End. Rev. J. Seist, D. D., of Philadelphia, gives the following as the three signs of the approach.

ing end of this religious age : 1. The Scriptures very distinctly tell as that the period of Obrist's Second Coming shall be a period of abounding apostasy, scaptioism and wickedness. I need not repeat the passages on this point. "As it was in the days of Noc. so shall it be also in the days of the Son of Mao." Luko 17: 26 | As Milsen says, "The first peculiar sign of the Second Aivent will be an extreme recklessness and impiety, and un nimost universal apostasy." And what a distressing agreement to this do we find in the characteristics of the present times ! Look at Christendom itself. About one half of thes; who profess and call themselves Christians are but nominally so. And still further. Look at the meral and religious condition of the nations at large, even hose that are called onlightened and Unristian. See how orime flourishes and infidelity vaunts itself. What are our seen'ar newspapers but registers of depravity, avarios, ambition, lawlessness and sin? See the inefficiency of law or Gospel to restrain the violence of passion, or to keep under the brazen iniquity which rears its head aloft on every side. Behold your erowded isfidel clubs, your besotted revolutiouary combinations, and your hardened and daring propagandists of falsehood, treas in, and all forms of social disruption. See with what randiness people, reputed intelligent, take up with the lowest delusions, and stand forth as the abottors and defenders of some of the foulest emissions of hell, such as spiritualism, universalism, etc. Behold bow even great men, professed theologians, editors, professors, lecturers, and men in high places of influence, adopt, advocate, and preach theories of pretended science and philosophy which unsettle the very foundations of piety and faich. What contempt for Christianity and callousness to its great truths do we encluster. And may we not conclude that "God will not, cannot, suffer this wicked world much looker?" 2. Another sign of the Saviour's Second Coming is to be found in areat revolutionary troubtes, political perplexities, and rast national agitations. The Saviour Ilimself and all the prophets have taught us this. And never have the universal political heavens been so shaken as in our day. When were human polities so confused, contridictory, and threatening as now? Look at them from one end of the world to the other. Who among the great ones of the circh cia tell where he standed Behold the strange alliances, the deep, sudden, and mysterious antipathies, the unforeseen combination of events, and the unknown tendencies of mighty institutable mavements, which have been manifesting themselves all war the world in these last days. Who can tell what shall be next? If it is war, who knows where it will end? It is is peace, who is sure that it will not prove that prelude to war? In either oue, mighty dans gers everywhere threaten. Dimperacy repubmaniem, autocracy, and military despottem have about equal obasees, and neither has any rational hope. As things now are, no coaceivable human arrangements can steer clear of the mighty maelstrom which seems to have drawa all the nations within the circle of its awful which. Men of wisiom, men of Abithophal astulagess, are at their wits' end, and the prodest and the far sighted are growing wild with amszement and fear. Wish all that can be done, things refuse to bend to any mercal control. The ship answers no more to the helia. There is not a government on earth that is not quaking with commotion. Everything is morlog, but whither politicians cannot tell-Hig.

3. A third sign of the nearness of the end is a stir and it quiry among many respecting Scripture propnecy, leading to the conviction that Christ is at hand. This is set forth in two passages, the one in Daniel, the other in the Lord's prophecy in the twenty fifth of Marinew. The passage of Daniel, 12: 4, is. O Daniel, shut up the words and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro and knowledge shall be increased." That is, in the period of the end, as Michaelis interprets, "many shall give their sedulous attention to the understand ing of these things;" or, according to a marginal note in an old English Bible "many shall ran to and fro to search the knowledge of these mysteries." Dr. Gil thus explains the passige: "Towards the time of the end appointed, many shall be stirred up to icquire into these things delivered in this book, and will spare no pains or cost to get a knowledge of them; and, with the blessing of Got upon them, the knowledge of this book of prophecy will be increased, things will appear olearer and plainer the nearer the accomplishment of them." Luther's rendering of it is as follows: "Acd now, Daniel shut up these words and seal this book until the last times; when many shall come over it and find great understand-Coke, Clarke, Henry and Duffi li, uci ing." derstand the passage in the same way and concarning the same period of the codsult of all this isquiry and colightenment ca the subject of p opheor, the Saviour tells us that "then shall the kingdom of heaven bo likened unto ten virgins which went cur to meet the bridegroom, and there was a cry made, Ber

And how evidently and significantly has this mark of the end been manifesting itself within the last fifty years! Though the multitude still turn from prophecy as frem a sealed book, yet what a stir, anxiety and study has it awakened in many exposst mind:! By some in every denomination, and in every Christian country, the subject is being studied and agitated .-E rery where there are men of God proclaiming the great dectrice of Christ's speedy coming to reign with his spints upon the ear.h.

In England, in Schland, in France, in our own country, in Germany, in N.rway, in Russia, in India, in the isles of the sea, the ery has been raised, 'Behold, the Bridegroom cometh; go ye out to met hin!' Never, never, since the early days of the early Unristians, his there been s) much eart oit lorging, preaching, expecting, believing, and praying upon the sub-ject of the nearness of Christ's coming. The interes', the study, and the faith are by no means as general as they should be, but general and intense, enlightened and carnest enough to warrant us to in saying that this sign of the hold, the Bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him." Matt. 25; 6.
